OPENING

Dance was a new elective open to all students, but only three guys, along with a number of girls, were brave enough to take it.

Old and new students crowd the halls.

TAKE A LOOK

The year 1991-92 began with many new additions. Besides 124 new freshmen and students new to the area, there were 10 new teachers and an assistant principal added to the staff.

Two new buildings were constructed during the summer--the Life Skills Center, for special needs students, and the new fieldhouse, which gave athletic classes more space.

Some individuals involved in competitive activities made it to state, and three, to nationals.

At the close of the year, those who attended graduation really saw something new as senior Joey Juarez performed a standing backflip after receiving his diploma.

So, take a look and you will see that 1991-92 held something new for everyone.

New for the football players were shirts with their last names and numbers.

WE'VE GOT THE LOOK

All dressed up for Prom, juniors are ready for "A Night on the Nile."

The SHS Band plays during the Homecoming pep rally while the Charmers do a routine.

Child development students play with small children during class on Fridays.

Spirit Week

This year's bonfire was sadly cancelled due to bad weather, but that did not dampen students' spirits. Many Sanger High students insisted on having a blaze, and blaze it was. Although there were no band members or cheerleaders present, the students who did attend this year's bonfire said it was one of the best ever.

Not only was the bonfire a success, but so was the entire week before Homecoming. Students dressed up for the designated days which were, Career, Up In The Air, Indian, Opposite Sex, and of course, Purple and Gold Day. Although Purple and Gold Day got the most responses, all participating students used their imaginations and helped to hype up the team for the big football game. Even though the game was lost, almost all of the students still saw this year's Spirit Week as a successful and entertaining event.

Look how Justin Herd, Alex Garza, and Jason Simoneaux show spirit on "Purple and Gold Day."

No one can pass up a glance at seniors Teri Boyd and Shannon Griffith on "Purple and Gold Day."

Senior Rona Beard dresses up on "Purple and Gold Day" to show she has spirit.

Take a look at the "FLAG," sophomore Hannah Giese, on "Up In The Air Day."

Homecoming

We lost the game 35-20, but that's not what Homecoming is all about...really.

We had all sorts of events that made Homecoming memorable, starting with the different dress-up days.

Wednesday afternoon was spent building the bonfire. People didn't think it would burn because of the weather, but all that was left was ashes.

And now, the 1991 King, Queen, and Court...from across the field came the nominees. And the winner is...

Homecoming...a week of memories to keep coming home to Take A New Look.

Freshman Lisa Duncan walks down the hall carrying Amanda Fleming's mum for her first high school Homecoming.

"Princess Price," Senior Marium Price dresses up in purple and gold for the Homecoming pep rally.

"And the winner is..." The Homecoming Court waits with anticipation to see who will be chosen King and Queen.

Jennifer Jones, Katrina Carender, and Chad Cook ride the F.H.A. float in the Homecoming parade.

Sophomores Ashley Jones, Casie Snider, and Kelly Fry stand up and holler for the Indians.

Class of 1992 show their "Senior Spirit" by yelling and throwing streamers.

The freshmen get into their first high school pep rally.

Pep Rallies

Charmers Helene
Moorman. Jessica
Horton, and Holly Smith
clap along while the band plays a song.

Class competition:
Those are two words
that described this year's pep rallies.

Upper and lower classmen were raising the roof trying to out-yell each other to win the "spirit-stick."

"Sophomores have a lot of enthusiasm,
and we won the spirit
stick," sophomore
Chad Holland said.

Many people
thought that the pep
rallies were much better than ones in the past, but they could be better.

"The pep rallies
could be better because the junior section doesn't yell a lot.
I also feel that the band should get the spirit stick because they are spirited,
too," junior Misti
Trussell said.

"We're Number one..."
The sophomore class
holds the spirit stick proudly.

Junior Renee Brown and some of her classmates give it all they've got to support the Indians.

Fads and Fashions

Fads and fashions were always a main concern in Sanger High School. From leather shoes to big hair bows, Sanger was always on top with the new styles.

One of the common fashions for the girls was sheer blouses. "I think some of them are cute, but I wouldn't wear them," junior Renee Brown said.

The guys even made a fashion statement when they started wearing overalls, pants or shorts, with one strap down. "I think it looks stupid, but everyone has the choice to wear what they want to," sophomore Brian McCall said.

Very few were still rolling up their jeans. Maybe it was a fading fashion or an old one coming back from the 50's. "Ancient, I did that when I was in the sixth grade, it is way out of style," freshman Lisa Duncan said.

Junior Kent Rider is just one of the guys who had a juiced up stereo system in his car.

Junior Rhonda Monty has the look! Long shirts and tight leggings were very "in".

Freshman Leah Boone and junior Leslie Miller display their Esprit purses, a popular item this year.

1891 or 1991? Sophomore Tracy Tutt displays his Western trenchcoat, while freshman Jeff Echols shows his own trend with high tops and shorts.

“I think that everyone should be their own person and stop trying to be like everyone else. They should dress how they want to. 'IF I COULD BE LIKE MIKE!!'” Junior Mendy Magana.

Freshman Jody Nix's braided belt, and junior Renee Brown's jacket show how popular leather was.

Parties-Inside & Out

Parties were held throughout the year for many occasions--classes, birthdays, or just for fun. Most English classes celebrated the end of studying a certain time in literature. "It was really cool of our teacher to let us eat crazy bread since we were studying Julius Caesar," sophomore Summer Stout said.

Birthday parties were always fun, and, sometimes, famous celebrities would show up.

Whether in or out of school, there will always be parties.

The gang's all here at Jody Roberts' birthday party.

Guests attended the Taste of the Town contest that students put on in the homemaking room.

Elvis rose from the dead to attend sophomore Chris Mills' birthday party.

"Paper or plastic?" Kyle Shumate sacks groceries at Burrus; Lisa Childers checks at the next stand.

"That'll be eighteen dollars and fifty cents." Molly Rutherford sells Plitt movie tickets to a family.

James Hunter checks the shelves at Burrus.

Chad Cook reshelves an item at Kroger.

After-School Jobs

The final bell of the day rang; school was out. Some students then went to a different kind of life in a whole new environment: these students had after-school jobs.

Fast food and supermarkets provided

"Is it ready yet?" Dena Smith and Jenny Hesse wait for Dairy Queen ice cream to freeze.

most of the jobs; some of the others were telemarketing, opinion surveying, and flying.

Whether the student was supporting a car, helping support the family, saving for college or working for other reasons, after-school jobs were an important part of student life.

How about this one? Lael McWilliams shows a package of cheese to a deli customer at Kroger.

Car-hopping with her bright smile in place, Kaye Taylor makes Sonic Drive-In customers feel glad they came.

Brian Bell and Wendy Murdock study together in the library. It may not be a date, but at least they're together.

"She's in love with the boy." Thomas Mullins and Renee Brown have been dating while he is attending Southeastern Oklahoma State University.

Here at S.H.S, not only do students have relationships, but teachers do as well. Coach Barry Hawkins gives his girl-friend, Tia Foster, a hug.

Friends and Relationships

Dear Friends,

This is my third year to be an exchange student, and also this is my last year to spend time in the U.S. Everybody was so sweet to me, and I appreciate it. I made a lot of good memories. I'm surprised at the number of pictures I've taken this year because I want to keep my memories. I had a hard time and also a fun time during these three years. The time goes so fast. I feel that this year has gone faster than any other year. That means I had a fun time this year.

I have plans to go back to Japan in June, 1992. I appreciate the friendship you gave to me, and I won't forget about it ever. Please don't forget me. Write me. I wrote my address below this page. If you come to Japan, please tell me. Thank you for everything. Thank you.

Love you,

今年是我的留学3年目であり、そしてアメリカ生活の最後の年でもあります。皆は私にとっても仲良くしてくれて感謝しています。沢山良い思い出が出来ました。今年はずいぶん沢山写真を撮りました。思い出を残しておきたいのです。この3年間、楽しい事、苦い事もありました。時の過ぎるのはとても速いです。今年は一瞥短く感じます。それだけ楽しい日を過ごせたという事です。

6月(1992年)に日本に帰る予定です。皆が私に与えてくれた事を感謝して一生忘れません。皆も私の事を忘れないで下さい。手紙も下さい。住所を下に書いておきます。日本に来る事があれば私に教えて下さい。

Driver Education

As spring arrived, the anticipation grew within the students as they looked forward to learning how to drive.

Learning to drive is quite an experience, but is also a big responsibility, as these students learned. Instructor Brett White said, "The most important thing that can be taught to the kids is the wearing of the seat belt. A defensive driver is the best driver."

The students were taught safety and defensive driving, parallel parking, how to change a flat tire, and all the rules that apply to learning how to drive a car. Rebecca Watson said, "Parallel parking was the hardest thing to learn in driver education class. It's hard to get the car in the spot just right without hitting something."

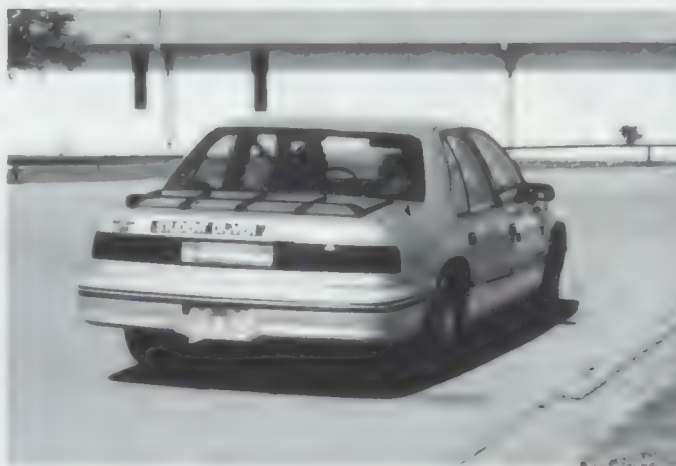

All of the students seemed to enjoy this class. They learned a lot, even from their mistakes. "The teacher really knew what he was talking about. I liked the teacher most of all," Terry Stogsdill said.

We can look forward to seeing all of these students driving to school and elsewhere just as they've hoped for these sixteen years.

"Seat belts fastened?" Fearless leader, instructor Tom Schwartz, gets ready for driver education student Candace Simpson's first driving experience.

Students in the driver education car take off for another field trip on the road.

P.J. Redmon, Tricia Masten, and instructor Brett White get into the driver education car for a driving session.

Sophomores Kelly Fry and Benji McGregor learn how to check the oil, while Jenifer Rackley learns by watching.

⚡ Taking Time Out

From collecting baseball cards to sleeping in class, spare time and hobbies differed between students.

"Because I am always tired, I always sleep in class," senior Bonni Hodzic said. "When I'm asleep, I don't have to worry about anything or anyone."

Some students' hobbies and spare time activities could be a career.

"I plan to continue playing in a band because I started at age 11 and have loved music ever since," senior Lewis Reynolds said.

Students always found something to do, whether for work or pleasure.

Tresa Muir, junior, warms up for a cross country race. Being in sports was one of her spare time activities.

During the Sellabration, junior Renee Agee has fun doing a group dance.

S.H.S Favorites

Danny Boynton and Rona Beard were Mr. and Miss Sanger High School for 1992. Danny was active in football and powerlifting. Not only was Rona head cheerleader for the 1991-1992 school year, she also participated in golf, was an editor of the school newspaper, and was elected Homecoming Queen. In addition, she was Senior Class Secretary and Valedictorian of her class.

3 Holidays

Many people like the holidays, especially Christmas, Thanksgiving, and Valentine's Day.

"On Christmas my family gets together and we eat dinner and visit," senior Teri Boyd said.

"I enjoy holidays, because it's time to just get away," senior Mac Reding said.

"My birthday is always my favorite. I love to spend time with my family and friends at the same time," junior Kristin Adkins said.

"I love to see my family on Christmas and Thanksgiving. What I really hate is the leftovers they try to dump on you," senior Jason Summers said.

Students enjoy their time and relax during holidays.

Senior Ben Willis and junior Jessica Horton dress up as cave dwellers for Halloween.

Freshmen Lisa Duncan, Natalie Amyx, Alyna Spear, Dawn Morse, and senior Chris Taylor attended an Impact convention at Hardin Simmons University in Abilene during Spring Break.

Juniors Misty Jordan, Molly Rutherford, and Andrea McDaniel went to South Padre and then to Mexico during Spring Break.

Many students received flowers, balloons, and candy from sweethearts on Valentine's Day.

To earn the academic letter, students must have at least a 95 average and no grade below 90 for two semesters at Sanger High School.

Jamie Alexander was recognized for being the senior selected by SHS teachers as the "Outstanding Student Citizen of the Year."

Mrs. Sherry Foree's fun spirit was one of the reasons she was elected as Teacher of the Year by the students. Here she clowns with Mrs. Hewlett and Mrs. Melott at Prom.

Transportation

Some students' only means of transportation is riding a bus.

Jason Shuffield, a sophomore, drives his own truck to school.

Mr. Hunt drives his bright yellow bug to work.

Rush hour before and after school clogs traffic at the four-way stop at Chapman and I-35.

Prom

Arriving at Prom, junior Tresa Muir rides in style.

The Junior-Senior Prom was held at the Sheraton Hotel on May 15, 1992. After weeks of preparation the juniors finally had it complete.

The theme, "A Night on the Nile," was Egyptian style. The colors were black and gold. Palm trees stood in the corners of the dance floor. An enormous mural of the inside of a pyramid, along with camels, lined the walls. The ten-foot statue of an Egyptian mummy and two sphinx statues gave a very special effect to the theme.

Prom received rave reviews and was full of special moments and memories, a night those who attended will never forget.

As senior Lisa Childers demonstrates, everyone looked their best for Prom.

Couple Kelly Logan and Chris Peacock seem to be having a wonderful time together at Prom.

Seniors David Ohlinger and Carrie Toups take a breather between dances.

The 1992 Prom King and Queen were Joey Juarez and Melinda Hesse.

Brandee Harrawood was not the only one with an out-of-town date.

"Is everybody here?!" Stephen Hammons, Chad Holland, Amy Eubanks, Pam Lockridge, and Misti Trussell make their entrance.

Black and gold palm trees, along with other props, stand waiting to be included in a beautiful background.

Sanger graduate Thomas Muir lends a helping hand by putting up the Egyptian mural.

Getting Ready for Prom

Before

"Will this ever be a festive occasion?" Bare tables wait to be decorated, and paper camels fall off the wall in the background.

After

"Yes!!!" Kent Rider, Chris Arnold, Jennifer Skaggs, Chrsity Goode, and their out-of-town dates enjoy the decorations.

Before the big night began, many questions, such as "How's my hair?" "Does my dress look alright?" and "What time was I supposed to pick her up?" went through the guests' heads. Students spent months trying to find the right out-fit for Prom.

Weeks of planning and preparation went into getting ready for Prom. The Prom committee and helpers took most of the day decorating the ballroom and making last-minute preparations.

"Is this clean enough?!" Juniors Tammy Gray and Melissa Thompson help prepare for Prom by cleaning the favors.

ACADEMICS

Mrs. Yeatts' freshman English classes celebrate the end of studying the Elizabethan Age with a feast.

Ms. Thomes' biology class learns how to dissect cow hearts.

LOOK WHO'S GOT CLASS

Ian Elieson, Paul Jonas, Tom Winegar, and Billy Jonas take time out to relax in the SHS library.

Deadlines and Stress

As the year came closer and closer to an end, SHS students started to feel the stress of accomplishing their school work. The deadlines for projects and research papers crept up on the procrastinating student as he daydreamed about summer sun and fun. Many students took advantage of the facilities at school to accomplish their work. Students gathered information for their research papers from the school library, and the Office of the Future was a popular place to type them.

Seniors Teri Boyd, Ian Elieson, and Colette Roybal help one another relieve stress in PALS class.

Groupwork and Labs

Jerry Horton tests blood in Coach Hopper's science class.

Sophomore John Henderson and juniors Josh Reed and Heath McGuffin work on a project in Mr. Ruland's agriculture class.

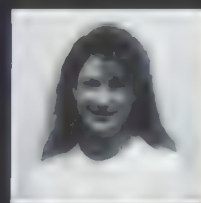

Groupwork is a great way for students to learn from each other while learning how to work with each other. In a group situation, each student is responsible for contributing to the group. When one person fails to do their part it puts the burden on the rest of the group. Group work is a team effort striving to accomplish a common goal. When everyone participates, the group will be successful and they will be satisfied with their work.

Mary White, Michael Jacobs, and Benji McGregor examine cow hearts in Ms. Thomes' biology class.

Jonathan Coulston, Tara Roelofs, Curry Searle, and Tresa Muir work on a titration lab in Mr. Danner's chemistry class.

"I like working in a group because it is easier and you can learn from the other students."

Rena Dougherty
Sophomore

Physical Classes

Alan Boyd seeks his target while playing war ball in P.E. as Michael Graham looks on.

Physical education is not just sweating and exercising. P.E. is having fun and learning at the same time. In fact, many students feel that P.E. teaches them sportsmanship. Coach Cooper, a gym teacher, said, "P.E. gives kids a chance to learn sports as well as build up their confidence as they progress." On the other hand, Coach Cooper added that the program may be improved by dividing classes by sexes and limiting enrollment.

Physical education classes can lay the foundation for a life-time exercise habit.

Coach White and Ben Willis watch as Brian Bell and David Ohlinger jump rope in athletics.

The boys' athletics class practices football tactics.

In girls' athletics, students warm up before practice.

"I like the work program because you don't have to stay in school all day. You also get valuable work experience."

Sherrie Brinkley
Senior

Christy Goode prepares to start working in Mrs. Harrison's work program class.

Chris Wesley leaves school early to go to work at Burrus Supermarket.

Manuel Dominguez cheerfully serves customers at Dairy Queen.

Work Program

Many students prepared themselves for the working world through Sanger High School's work program. They were able to go to school part time and then go to work. This enabled them to earn money for college, to help their parents, or just to earn extra spending money. Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Higgs both taught work program classes. Mrs. Harrison's class learned how to use different programs on the computer such as word processing and spreadsheet. These skills were a great asset for the working student. Mrs. Higgs taught the H.E.C.E. class. Her students learned specific job skills such as work habits, attitude and ethics, and interview and resume techniques.

Sherrie Brinkley and Mary Barton work together in their work program class.

Life Skills Center

The Life Skills Center was established to provide special needs students the opportunity to acquire the skills and experience necessary to effectively function in the community. The students at the SHS Life Skills Center have been able to take numerous field trips, including one to the Joe Walters Workshop and Bluebonnet Room Restaurant, which is run by special needs individuals who do all of the cooking and ordering. The students were also involved in a program which helped them learn banking and budgeting skills. They earned Life Skills Dollars and kept them in an account. Then they were able to use their dollars to pay for outings, eat in the high school cafeteria, or buy free time on the computer. Thanks to the Life Skills Center, many special needs individuals were able to receive training through real life experiences.

Cassie Wood folds laundry in the laundry room of the Life Skills Center.

Bryan Collier helps Mr. Kirkley sweep up in the garage of the Life Skills Center.

Jason Wickersham uses a saw in the garage of the Life Skills Center. This is one of the many useful skills the students learn.

Sophomore Veda Williams sits out in the hall to make up a geometry test.

Test Taking and Homework

This year has been full of test taking for students. For seniors, the ACT and SAT were steps toward a college education. For some, the TAAS test had to be conquered before graduation was theirs. Juniors, sophomores, and freshmen took achievement tests in order to test their basic skills.

Between the many tests there were many hours of studying and homework. Sometimes all the material for a subject could not be covered in the class room, making homework necessary. Although tests and homework may seem redundant, they will help us prepare for a college education.

Electives

Elective courses helped to give students a break between required courses such as English, math, and history. Although elective courses may not have been as demanding, surely they were as important. Dance, home economics, and agriculture also helped prepare students for their future.

Mr. Ruland's agriculture class takes advantage of some free time to talk.

Holly McArthur prepares a dish for her display in the Taste of the Town contest.

Mrs. Higgs' child development class spends time playing with children to learn more about them.

Heather Miller works on her display for the Taste of the Town contest.

Mrs. Spruiell's dance class practices one of the routines they have learned.

Required Courses

What do projects, tests, and homework all have in common? They are all requirements in required courses. Although some required courses may be more enjoyable than others, they are all mandatory. Most teachers try to challenge their students to do their very best.

"I have my senior English classes do research papers over different topics. They go to the library and learn how to find information," English and history teacher Mrs. Ivy said. "My history class will make posters and debate certain subjects. This year they might make a Globe Theatre and put on a Shakespearean play. I hope they will learn to have confidence when they get up in front of a group."

Coach Hawkins takes time to relax between his classes.

Helpful Hints

All through the year, students received help from their teachers and their fellow students. The teachers were willing to help their students learn the material and achieve their goals. Students helped each other study for tests, memorize poems, and keep their sanity through many stressful days of school.

Mrs. Yeatts helps her drama students.

"Mrs. Danner was my favorite math teacher. She helped me to understand geometry as well as the Algebra II that I missed the year before."

Brent Herzog

Tracy Tutt helps Hannah Giese with her geometry homework.

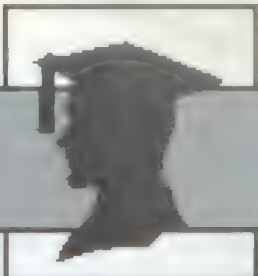

Mrs. Foree helps Jerry Erwin on an Algebra II assignment.

Angela Colston and Daniele Sprigel help each other study for Mrs. Sheffield's Spanish II semester exam.

College Night

Where are you going to college?

What are you going to major in?

To any student planning on a college education, these questions posed a major decision to be made in their lives. As they desperately sought answers to these questions, many students found the help they needed at College Night. Representatives from many colleges came to tell students about their college. Representatives also gave information on scholarships available from their college.

Sophomore April Boise listens as the representative from the Texas Speech-Language-Hearing Association explains their program.

Juniors Amy Eubanks, Heather Miller, Angela Sunnenberg, and freshman Angela Preston get information from Tarleton State University.

Senior Ben Willis talks to a representative from the Army.

Junior Jason Bellar and his mother talk with a representative from East Texas State University.

Volleyball

New coaches, new uniforms, and even a few new teammates were a part of this year's volleyball team.

With the loss of former coach Cindy Williams, the team realized they would have to pull together and do what had to be done-- win. It was hard adjusting to coach Hank Cooper's different style of coaching, but the girls found out they actually liked it better than the way they were used to.

"I felt sad about losing coach Williams, but I knew we just had to go on," sophomore Daniele Spriegel said.

With all six returning starters, plus new players, the Lady Indians pulled together and beat Pottsboro in the District opener. At the first Sadler Tournament, the Indians won a second place trophy and at the Pilot Point Tournament the Lady Indians came home with the third place trophy. The Indians finished the season with a win at Commerce, who was tied for second place in district.

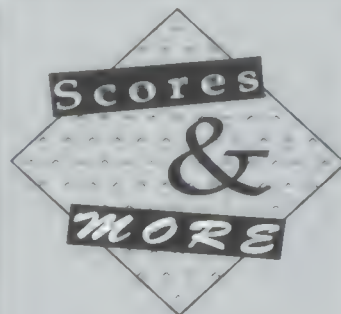

"Commerce was one of our best games that we played in all year," senior Tara Roelofs said.

CONCENTRATE! Junior Julie Jannereth concentrates on her next serve, hoping it will go over.

J.V. BOYS

The J.V. football team played extra tough, and even though they had a losing record, the score was close in almost every game. The coaching staff was highly praised for their help, both on and off the field. "I think they did a really great job. They were always there when you needed them both on and off the field," sophomore Jesse Hunter said.

During the middle of the season the freshman team was moved to J.V., due to the fact that there wasn't enough people to play. "I didn't mind moving up. Actually, I liked it better because there was more action," freshman Jason Attaway said.

The start of two-a-days looked promising with new coaches, new players, and a new P.E. facility. With all the players, there would be enough to make up three teams. But by the first game there wasn't so much optimism. Many of the players had either been injured or had quit. Many underclassmen were moved up to varsity, leaving only two teams.

"At first I was scared about all of the underclassmen on varsity, but then I realized that I played when I was a sophomore, too. I tried my best not to let the seniors down and I believed that they would try their hardest for us," senior David Ohlinger said.

JV Girls

Like their older sisters in Varsity, the JV Lady Indians brought home the 1992 district title. The JV Ladies were dazzlingly successful, winning all ten of their district games.

First-year coach Barry Hawkins won the approval of his team. "If we had to have a replacement for Coach Armstrong," junior Misti Trussell said, "Coach Hawkins was a good one. Those two are a lot alike as far as coaching goes."

A season like this is one to look back upon for a lifetime. As sophomore Summer Stout said, "This was an awesome season."

BASKETBALL

The Lady Indians did an outstanding job this season. Even with all the obstacles that had to be overcome, the Ladies ended as district champions.

"We had a great season, and I really liked the people on our team. I think we accomplished a lot this year," senior Teri Boyd said.

Some team members hinted that over-confidence may have become a problem.

"When we played Wylie at their court, it was the last game of the first half of district, and we were 6-0. I guess we had a bighead, thinking we would win, but we ended up losing our first game. It taught us a good lesson," senior Melinda Hesse said.

The Ladies' Season ended with a loss to Southlake Carroll in bi-district. The team wished they could play that one over, "because," as Teri said, "I know if we had one more chance we could win."

BASKETBALL

Our boys basketball team this year had their ups and downs. Unfortunately, the varsity boys didn't win one game, but most of the players agree that this year was definitely a learning experience.

"I think this year was a real learning experience," senior Craig Schertz said. "It did the young players a lot of good."

While the season was a learning experience, most agree that it was frustrating.

"I would have liked to have won a game," sophomore Jason Gillum said. "It was very frustrating to work hard in practice and still lose every game."

The JV team was a little more successful, but coach James Hopper admitted that more wins would have been nice.

"I would have liked to have more wins, because I like winning," coach Hopper said.

The freshman team also had a tough season. Even though not every game was won, the players still came out of the season with a positive attitude.

"I feel real good about the season," freshman Brady Beard said, "even though we lost a lot of games, I still had fun."

Although the freshmen lost some games, coach Brett White admits that it was good for them.

"You must be able to experience a loss to appreciate a win," coach White said.

Still going hard... Freshman Daniel Bell is still going hard after the home game against Bonham.

VARSITY BOYS BASKETBALL: Coach Russell Duren, manager Mackenzie Moore, Chip White, Jerry Dunaway, Jason Summers, Drew Middleton, Craig Schertz, Chris Harrist, Whit Cross, Scott Scobee, Jody Roberts, Jason Gillum, Coach James Hopper, and Coach Jim Davis.

J.V. BOYS BASKETBALL: Coach James Hopper, Steven Dietz, Eric Atchison, Steven Belcher, Justin Herd, David Taylor, Steven King, Gus Dorrell, Alex Garza, John Henderson, and Coach Russell Duren.

Take the three... Sophomore Chris Harrist gets ready to take a three-pointer after a great pass from freshman Chip White.

The winner!...Junior Kelly Webster makes a quick catch at the Mineral Wells rodeo, where she brought home first place.

Queen candidate...Sophomore Casie Snider honored Sanger High School by representing us in the Youth Fair Queen contest at the Youth Fair rodeo in Denton. Casie was first runner-up in the queen contest and also won the competition for most ticket sales.

Get it, boy!...Senior Mac Reding focuses on the calf as he dismounts from his horse, Rosie, hoping to win another first at the Cleburne rodeo.

Winning lots of buckles, trophies, and titles is nothing for two students at Sanger High. Senior Mac Reding and junior Kelly Webster both made it to the North Texas High School Rodeo Association (NTHSRA) finals by being one of the top 15 competitors in the whole region of North Texas. Mac has been riding practically since birth. He was the 1989 rookie cowboy of the year in the NTHSRA. This year Mac was ranked second in the calf roping and fourth in the ribbon roping in NTHSRA. He was also the region III high school calf roping champion. Mac also received a rodeo scholarship from Cooke County College.

Kelly has also been rodeoing most of her life. This year in Pro Youth Rodeo Association (PYRA) she was ranked fourth. Also in NTHSRA Kelly placed fifth in breakaway over all. She also was ranked fifth in Texas High School Rodeo Association (THSRA).

"I feel that my rodeo season has improved this year," Kelly said. "My roping was more constant and I did better in NTHSRA than I had before."

Rodeo comes along with many great memories, just like any other sport. "My most memorable moment this year was when I roped and tied a calf in 8.1 seconds at the Azle rodeo," Mac said.

Although there are many great memories, there are also some that we wish we could forget. "My worst moment was when I attended the THSRA finals in Abilene," Kelly said. "I missed both of my calves and came home empty handed."

Both boys and girls golf teams competed in district meets, and the girls' team went to the regional meet, where they captured fourth place.

Coach Hank Cooper called the finish "beyond our expectations," but added: "Next year I think we can get first." Julie Jannereth and Gus Dorrell won the "Fighting Indian" awards for golf for the 1992 season.

Girls

The varsity girls track team did a very good job this year. They had one regional qualifier, Christina McCarty, and many who gave their best effort.

"This year in track I feel I tried the best I could with this being my first year," sophomore Heather Mitchell said.

This year's track team was very small. With the team being so small and limited, they did not have a sprint relay.

"I really wish more people would have gotten involved," senior Melinda Hesse said, "so at least we could have had a sprint relay."

Many embarrassing things happen during track. Either you trip and fall in a race or you come in dead last, but nothing is more embarrassing to a senior than having a freshman beat you.

"My most embarrassing time was when a freshman beat me," senior Teri Boyd said.

This year the boys track team did very well. Unfortunately, the boys only had one regional qualifier, Justin Slider in the discus.

"This being my first year in high school track, I was really surprised. It was totally different than middle school track," sophomore Jesse Hunter said. "I think we did good for the district we were placed in. A lot of people reached their personal goals, and that is great."

Even though some were really pleased with the way they competed, others were not.

"I should have run ten times better than what I did in most of the track meets," sophomore Kyle Shumate said.

The J.V. team did an excellent job at their district meet. Look at us! Sophomores Kathy Wade, Stephanie Sons, and Ashley Jones show just how silly sophomores can be.

Being a sophomore is pretty cool for many reasons. One is that you get to drive, but the most important reason is that you're not scared of high school anymore. You feel like you have no cares. The bad thing about being a sophomore is that you still have two years of high school left.

Jack George

Before I got my ring I was all excited. You really don't know what it is going to look like because you order it out of a booklet. The turning of the ring is still a tradition. After five people turned it, some of the diamonds fell out. I was angry. It's not like I spend three hundred dollars for the diamonds to fall out. They were finally replaced and I was happy.

To all my friends:

I love you, thanks for everything. Hope you have a wonderful life ahead.

*Love ya lots,
Kristi*

Heather,

Time has gone by so fast and we've been through so much together. There's no way I could have gotten through all the bad times and through all my problems without you. I know that even when we have different lives that we'll still be best friends because we'll always need each other! One day soon we'll be together with our husbands having "Barbeques on Sundays"! I love you to death!

Christy

To our Senior Class:

We've had some good times and some bad times, too. I just wanted to tell you guy's that ya'll mean a lot to me and you are the best class ever!

*Love ya,
Teri*

Jennifer,

I love you with all my heart. Our love has lasted a long time, and I hope it lasts even longer. I love you when you're angry, I love you when you're mad. But most of all I love you just because you are you.

*Love 4/ Life,
David*

To Melinda, Tara, and Shannon:

Ya'll are the best friends in the world and I love ya'll. Stay yourselves and keep in touch.

*Love ya,
Teri*

Ben,

I just wanted to say that you're very special to me and I love you. I'm going to miss you the most out of everyone, so please keep in touch.

*Love you,
Teri*

Christy,

Thanks for being there this past year, I've really needed you. I can't believe how much we've been through. But with all the bad things that's happened, everything seems to be going great for us now. I hope we stay as close as we are now, forever!

*Love ya,
Heather*

To all my friends and teachers:

Thanks for a great two years at SHS. I wish you luck in all you do. I hope you can accomplish all of your goals for the future!

*Love ya,
Katie Williams*

Colette,

You've been my best friend all through high school. Even when we went through our hard times, I always considered you as my best friend. I'll miss you when we both move on. Good luck with your future plans.

*I love ya,
Shannon*

Heather,

I'll always remember all of the great times that we've shared. I want to wish you good luck in the future and in everything you do. Thanks for the memories!

*Love ya,
Brandee*

Congratulations to the graduating class of 1992!

May your years at Sanger High School hold wonderful memories as you journey through the years ahead.

From the Golden Warrior Staff

Carrie,

You've made my high school years so much fun. It just wouldn't have been the same without you. I want to thank you for the times that I needed you and you were there. I hope that we will always be this close.

Brandee*

Taking Time To Prepare

Sherrie Brinkley orders her cap and gown and other senior memorabilia.

Reverend Skip McNeil speaks to the seniors for Baccalaureate at the First Baptist Church in Sanger.

Seniors hold their keys which were just cut apart. During Senior Night, the cutting of the ribbon in the key ceremony symbolizes the separation of the graduating class.

Seniors eagerly await for the delicious food to be served at the Senior Breakfast that was sponsored by parents.

The class listens to Mr. Biggerstaff explain the procedure for commencement exercises.

Seniors finish putting on their caps and gowns and talk while waiting for Baccalaureate to begin.

Mary Barton tries to decide how many bobby pins she will need for her cap.

The choir sings "You'll Never Walk Alone" for graduates and guests.

Start Of New Beginnings

The senior class of 1992 graduated 71 students with 12 honor graduates. The class colors were black and teal; class flower was a rose; and the class motto was "NOT." Commencement exercises were held in the main auditorium at the University of North Texas on May 29 at 8:00. The valedictorian was Rona Beard and salutatorian was Jody Roberts.

Rona Beard gives the valedictory address.

Jerry Dunaway waits while Mr. Coulston calls his name.

Jody Roberts gives the salutatory address.

Seniors throw their caps with the joy of finally being free.

Heather McArthur and Christy McQueen find time in their busy schedules to have a picture taken together.

Seniors find a way to end class a little early.

Vern Mullins and Marium Price show they can have fun and act their age in public places.

Tara Roelofs, Teri Boyd, and Melinda Hesse seem very happy about the Christmas holiday coming up.

LOOK WHO'S TALKING

Coach Duren and Mr. Ingram play a quick game of ping-pong during tutorials.

The faculty and staff gave J.C. Holder a retirement party in the library for the sixteen years that he served at Sanger.

This has been a terrific first year. I came to Sanger High School with some anxiety since this was my first year as an administrator. I must say that being an assistant principal has been much, much better than I had been led to believe.

Who's Trekkin'

"Field trip!"-- words to set almost any student's heart to beating faster--and when there was a field trip underway, Spanish Club and Science Club were likely to be the ones doing the trekkin'.

In the fall, the Science Club traveled to Fort Worth to see the Soviet space exhibit. They also traveled during spring break, going to Austin, and then to San Antonio, where they experienced Sea World.

The Spanish Club did its share of the trekkin', too. In October, members attended a performance of "The Barber of Seville" at Naaman Forrest High School in Garland, and they watched the Latin-American Dancers perform in Fort Worth in February.

CHOIR TUNES UP; CHESS CLUB CHECKS IN

■ Is that a decisive move Curry Searle made against Brent Herzog--or just a hopeful one?

■ Mr. Hunt and Elisha McCoy enjoy a friendly game of chess during an after-school club meeting.

The school year 1991-92 was one filled with new things for students and staff. What better time to form two new organizations?

The new clubs were begun by two teachers, Mr. Chris Turner, second year assistant band director, and Mr. George Hunt, new business and economics teacher.

"We didn't have a chess club, and I thought we ought to have one," Mr. Hunt said. "We had several meetings, played a lot of chess, and had a lot of fun."

Mr. Turner, when he learned that the school had no choir, asked to start one. The choir's first performance was for the elementary students at Chisholm Trail November 22. Then the group was in demand all year to sing for the community.

As the year ended, both sponsors looked forward to new and greater things for their organizations. "I hope we can have some chess tournaments with other schools," Mr. Hunt said.

The choir also looked forward to the possibility of competition, hoping to grow enough in number to be able to take part in UIL contests.

Shala! You've come a long way from the days of just "coloring and crying." You've taken all the colors of the rainbow and put them in your beautiful smile. The tears you shed come from happiness and joy, not from a scared little girl who's afraid of what lies ahead.

Keep that colorful smile and those thoughtful tears for your love of God, and you will always go far in life.
You've made us very proud.

Special thanks to those who provided photographs for this publication: Blunck's Studios, Sanger Courier, Whitt's Photography, Sundance Aerial Photography, Betty McCoy, Richard Muir, Wayne and Linda Tutt, Ron Beard, the Smoke Signals staff, the photo-journalism class, Mike and Carol Danner, Sunny Yeatts, Skip McNeil, and the Spirit of Sanger Booster Club.

TAKE A LOOK BACK

The school year 1991-92 has now passed and has become history. The world watched in disbelief as communism came to an end in the Soviet Union. AIDS became a shocking reality and personal to everyone when pro-basketball player Magic Johnson was found to have contracted the HIV virus. Although Magic resigned from playing pro ball, he still was a part of the USA Olympics basketball team, the Dream Team. At SHS, we have our memories of the good times and bad, of the events and activities we enjoyed, and those that seemed to drag on. In the years to come, we hope you will enjoy taking a new look back every time you pick up this book.

Sophomores Stephanie Sons and Daniele Spriegel walk down the hall of empty lockers on the last day of school.

Construction begins on the new addition that will be ready for school next year.
